Speaker Camille Fitzpatrick, NP, who completed her nurse practitioner certificate at Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard Medical School Department of Continuing Medical Education, was a pioneer in developing the nurse practitioner field. During her more than 45 years as a nurse practitioner, her practice involved complex care for underserved populations. She worked with the Orange County Health Care Agency, providing home health for elderly patients with chronic disease and psychiatric conditions. She has extensive experience working with older adult driving issues and has served on multiple California statewide task forces and DMV committees. Fitzpatrick now serves as volunteer faculty at UCI Geriatrics.
